How Washington Women May Keep Their Hair Soft and Beautiful

Dandruff must be removed and hair roots nourished to stop falling bair and itching scalp. It is unnecessary to have thin, brittle, matted, wispy or faded locks. No matter how unsightly the hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff. Parisian Sage rubbed into the scalp is all that is ever needed. The hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, even all dandruff is removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; the hair appears more abundant and its always soft, fluffy and radiant with life and beauty.

Parisian Sage, a daintily perfumed liquid, is one of the most pleasant, invigorating and refreshing air dressings known, yet perfectly harmless and inexpensive. After the first application you will be surprised and delighted with Parisian of lace or net following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of design. These are from $17 to $30. Daring combinations of colors are used in the new striped sport things. If one does not care for an entire costume of stripes there are pretty collar and cuff sets that give a touch of smartness to any informal costume. The sketch shows one of the newest of these sets of striped silk jersey in any combination to match the frock. The collar is square, with the stripes running diagonally, and the cuffs are deep and flaring. There are pretty scarfs that add a distinctive touch to outdoor clothes.

means to keep thinking and thinking about unpleasant things. Reddy Fox was doing both up in the Old Pasture. went after his unpleasant meeting with Jimmy Skunk. It was the only place for him to go because of that dreadful perfume which Jimmy Skunk had thrown on him. He just had to go away by himself, and the most lonely place he knew of was up there in the Old Pasture. He kept out of sight as much as possible, only coming out at night to hunt for his food. He was ashamed to be seen and still more ashamed to be smelled, and no one could go anywhere near him without Squab Pie.

In a while a little shiver would go over them they thought of the time when they thought of the time when they thought of the time gives the skirt a smart flare, which is they knew perfectly well that he would do his best to make trouble for them just to make up for the time that they had been free from him. But they had been free from him. But they had been free from him. But they had been free from him by himself up in the Old Pasture they rejoiced in the glad springtime and were happy, which is very much the way of all the great world.

It wasn't so much that no one but Jimmy Skunk himself liked that per- rise. Cover this with a layer of good fume that made Reddy ashamed. No, sausage meat, fill it with four or six he knew that when his neighbors smelled it they would know right away that he hadn't been smart enough to keep out of trouble with Jimmy Skunk. They would know without being told that Jimmy had had the best of that meeting. The truth is it was because his pride had had a regular topsy-turry tumble that Reddy felt so ashamed. You know he is very smart. He knows it, too. In fact he likes to think himself the smartest of all the little meadow and forest people. And so it hurt his pride dreadfully to have his neighbors know that he had been in trouble with Jimmy Skunk and got the worst of it.

But what hurt his pride attlement. indeed, it wasn't that. It was because squabs stuffed with a force meat flavor-worst of it.

But what hurt his pride still more was the suspicion that Peter Rabbit had been at the bottom of that trouble and had planned to get him into it. It was only a suspicion at first, but the more he thought about it the more certain he became in his own mind that Peter had planned to make him run against that barrel.

"I believe he knew all the time that "I believe he knew all the time that jummy Skunk was inside and that that barrel would roll down hill if I hit it hard enough. At first I thought it was all an accident, but now I'm not lieve Peter Raib' he muttered I' believe heer Raib' he muttered I' believe heer Raib' he held with held never been born." That's what he'll wish he'd never been born." Reddy glared at nothing the way he would have glared at Peter had to know and it has had happened to Peter. But he didn't know, so he kept by himself and nursed a growing temper and brooded over his wrongs and brooded here was he would attend the would reter Rabbit, a very longity everybody else knew, that he wouldn't dare anger Jimmy Skunk again. As for Peter Rabbit he never yet had been able to catch Peter. It didn't make him feel any better to have Sammy Jay bring bli any where he was staying and that it wouldn't do for him to go near that summer. Of course Granny didn't really mean that. But Reddy knew that it wouldn't do for him to go near that wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near that the wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near that it wouldn't do for him to go near the mere he brooded the worse his temper became.

All the time Peter Rabbit and Danny Meadow Mouse and Johnny Chuck and the other little people whom Reddy is forever trying to catch were rejoicing that they did not have to worry about him. It was a great relief not to have to be watching out for Reddy Fox every time they poked their heads out of their homes. To be sure, old Granny Fox had to be watched out for, and also Old Man Coyote, but it is always easier to watch out for three, and so, though Reddy was missed on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest, it was in a very nice way. forest, it was in a very nice way.

At least they thought so. But once

Ice is fitted snugly and drawn across the figure surplice fashion, with rather tight sleeves, full and flaring at the elbow. A square hemstitched organdy collar finishes the top, and black velvet ribbon forms a girdle and streamers at each side of the front. The skirt has ruffles over the hips to give the desired bouffant effect.

Other gowns for evening wear are of lace or net following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and are smart in their simplicity of lace or the following the same lines, and that when they are woefully unbecomadjusted they are woefully unbecoming; but the milliner merely smiles in a superior way and insists that if a large quantities of expensive yells that a superior way and insists that if a woman is well dressed she must be veiled.

The adoration for the mesh covering for the face is almost oriental. There were seasons when our women were almost as slavish in their adherence to veils as the Turkish women. They were considered as essential to a costume as a pair of gloves. Heaps of them were carefully folded in sachet in the bureau drawers or in picture boxes, to be ready for all occasions and to suit all costumes.

About five years ago there was a noticeable diminution, however, in the wearing of veils, of which the public did not become cognizant until it was proclaimed over and over by the fashion reporters. Even then these reporters were called to account by the milliners, just as they were by the sellers of gloves when they asserted that London was leading the way in abandoning evenir g gloves.

Some way to induce women to buy the large quantities of expensive veits that are turned out into the market every vear. One of the French designers hit upon the idea of draping the hat with a lace veil, somewhat like the fashion that was followed two decades ago, when women draped colored veils around panama and straw hats for summer days. There always seem to be lace veils on hand, and, as natural colored straw hats have to to together very weil.

The drapery of the veil is not a difficult matter for the amateur, and it may be that this new French fashion will find many followers in homes where economy in hats is a species of thrift that is annually followed.

Brims That Turn Down.

Much of the millinery drapery of the day is made more simple because the majority of the hats have brims that don was leading the way in abandoning evening gloves.

A fashion reporter who was at the Grand Prix at Deauville one Sunday afternoon in August cabled back to New York that not a single veil was worn by the women at the races, and to this remark exception was taken from every side where commercial interests were involved.

The Veils Lost Out.

And yet that statement about the lack of veils at Deauville was true and important. From that time there was
